Staff Highlight

Jason Eiseman

Associate Director for Administration

As the new Associate Director for Administration Jason will take over running many of the day-to-day operations and administrative functions of the law library. Students and student groups with requests for library sponsorship for events and other library-related requests are encouraged to contact Jason.

Jason has been with the law library for 10 years. During this time, he has worked on all aspects of library technology while also teaching legal research and working directly with students and faculty on complex research projects. For the last three years Jason has been leading the team focused on law library digitization, digital preservation, and other technology services. He has also taught in the library's legal research courses and will be co-teaching Corporate Legal Research in Spring 2020.

Prior to coming to Yale Law School Jason worked as a law firm librarian in Portland, Oregon. He has experience with legal and non-legal research including competitive intelligence, securities, tax, and public records research.

Jason likes to cook vegan meals and spend time with his kids, ice skating, biking, hiking and heading to the beach every chance they get.

There There by Tommy Orange

In Tommy Orange's "There There," an ambitious meditation on identity and its broken alternatives, on myth filtered through the lens of time and poverty and urban life, on tradition all the more pressing because of its fragility, it is as if he seeks to reconfigure Oakland as a locus of desire and dreams, to remake the city in the likeness of his large and fascinating set of characters.

Yale Law School Legal Scholarship Repository

The Yale Law School Legal Scholarship Repository (<http://digitalcommons.law.yale.edu/>) is our online, open access database containing almost all past and present Yale faculty legal scholarship, as well as a great deal of student scholarship and entire runs of ten former and current Yale law journals. The Repository is recognized as one of the most valuable free portals to legal scholarship available on the Internet. At the Yale Law School, the digital Repository is now treated as the central archive of professors' work, past and present. It plays a vital role in our preservation efforts for the Law School. As such, it represents the institutional memory of the school's scholarship.

The Yale Law School Legal Scholarship Repository contains over 17,660 scholarly works, and last year alone, the Repository saw over 1,854,154 full-text downloads. Beyond our own community, the Repository enjoys incredible global reach and has become a fabulous tool for global outreach.
