Pamela Rentz

Senior Administrative Assistant

Pam Rentz joined the Law Library in 2018 as the Senior Administrative Assistant in the Library's Administration Office. She handles many of the library's day to day operations as well as designing many of the library's posters. Before coming to the Law Library she worked at the University of Bridgeport in the development office.

She grew up in NY and moved to CT after her mother graduated from Cornell Veterinary School. When not at work, Pam enjoys spending time with her twin boys whether it's cheering them on at their latest Triathlon, working with them on various science projects, reading, spending time at the beach or going on a nice long walk with their dog. Pam and her children enjoy coming to New Haven to sample new restaurants, browse the shops and visit the museums. She also loves to express her creativity by making quilts and teddy bears, working on various cross stitch projects, designing and making stained glass pieces, gardening and cooking (to name a few).

New Exhibit on Level 1: "Religious and Customary Law."

Great religions have legal codes in part inspired by their sacred books; societies across the world have had ancient legal systems in force for centuries. Today, both religious and customary laws coexist with modern constitutions, statutes and courts, providing holistic access to justice in many countries across the world. From November 2019 – until January 2020, Religious and Customary Law is on exhibition in the Foreign & International Area (Level 1).
