YALE SCHOOL OF LAW

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Candidates for the degree of LL.B. will be accepted at the beginning of any term. They must be graduates of approved colleges and must submit applications on forms furnished by the School at least four weeks prior to the opening of the term for which admission is sought. Applicants must submit transcripts of their college records and two letters of recommendation. A personal interview and a law aptitude examination will also be required if permission to complete the application is granted. Applicants who have been excluded from other law, graduate, or professional schools for deficiency in scholarship are not eligible.

A limited number of students otherwise qualified may be granted credit for not more than one year of study of high quality at an approved law school.

Applications for graduate study will be received from persons who are primarily interested in law teaching or government service and who have obtained a college degree and a law degree with high rank from recognized institutions. Fellowships available for such study will be granted in deserving cases.

ACCELERATED PROGRAM

Subject to change without notice, the School will continue to operate on a schedule of three terms of fifteen weeks each per calendar year. Completion of six of these terms is required for the LL.B. degree. For the coming year the dates of these terms are:

Fall—October 22 to February 16, 1946

Spring—February 18 to June 8, 1946

Summer—July 1 to October 12, 1946

Students meeting the above requirements will be accepted for admission at the beginning of any term.

EQUIPMENT

The Sterling Law Buildings, the headquarters of the School of Law, are the gift of the trustees of the estate of John W. Sterling, B.A. 1864, and were completed in 1931. They occupy the entire block bounded by Wall, High, York, and Grove Streets. On the High Street side are offices, seminar rooms, lecture halls, auditorium, and library space for about 420,000 volumes. The remaining buildings are normally devoted to dormitory and living quarters for students and a portion of the faculty. The Law Library contains about 296,000 volumes. Additions are made at the rate of 10,000 to 12,000 volumes a year.
